If you are a Carmel voter don't fail to hear the new City Hall project discussed tonight at 8:00 o'clock in the Sunset School Auditorium. The city council has arranged to have the matter fully explained and City Attorney Argyle Campbell will be on hand to answer any legal questions that may arise. It is the desire of those interested in the project that the voters shall be familiar with every phase of the question and they will have available information in detail as to the manner in which the indebtedness will be met and the bonds paid off. If any voter remains in ignorance of the subject and fails to hear arguments on both sides before going to the poles to cast his ballot it will be his own fault. At this meeting every person who has anything to say either for or against the plan to build a city hall, or on any partcular matter pertaining to the site or plans, he will be given the opportunity to speak.

FIREMEN CONSIDER CITY HALL PLANS

The Carmel Fire Department believes an ounce of investigation is better than years of regret, so Chief Robert Leidig has appointed a committee to check on the plans for a new city hall and make sure that accommodations for the fire department are adequate. Paul Funchess, Fred Mylar and Paul Mercurio are the members of the committee.

Miss J. B. (Peggy) Perkins, advertising manager for "Controversy," is in Carmel this week. "Controversy," H. L. Mack's journal of Social Credit, has moved its business offices to an Francisco, but continues to publish in Carmel.

NOTED PIANIST COMING SOON

A musical event combined with great personal interest is the piano recital by Ernst Bacon, concert pianist and director of the Monterey Peninsula orchestra, which the Denny-Watrous Gallery is presenting on next Monday evening, January 21, at 8:30 o'clock.

Since last October, Mr. Bacon has been coming down weekly from San Francisco, to conduct the local orchestra. His broad musicianship, his delightful personality and his reputation from afar of his accomplishment as a concert pianist have brought about continued demand for an opportunity to hear him in recital.

Ernst Bacon is a native of Chicago. He began his career as a concert pianist with tours in Germany and in the Middle West. Tremendous success attended his appearances, both abroad and in New York, the Hamburger Anzeiger calling him "A pianistic talent of overwhelming power."

Later he joined the faculty

SOROPTIMISTS HAVE BUSY WEEK

Members of the Monterey Peninsula Soroptimist Club are finding this season a busy one. Last week they had their own installation in Monterey and yesterday several of them attended the installation banquet of the Watsonville branch. It was held at Burkhardt's Candy store, owned by one of the club members.

Tomorrow, January 16, some of the members of the local branch will go to Salinas to attend the banquet to be held at the Santa Lucia Inn, in honor of the seventh birthday anniversary of the Salinas club.

TOWARD A NEW JOURNALISM.

(From the Christian Science Monitor.)

"Liberal Journalism was never at a lower ebb in America than it is today, when to publish a liberal journal is to offend all those who would preserve the status quo," so Clark McAdams, editor emeritus of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, told a Philadelphia group recently.

"Today there is a growing doubt among the great mass of our citizens whether the press is any longer a champion of their rights," Prof. Kenneth E. Olson, president of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, asserted at the Chicago convention of that organization last week. American newspapers generally, he said, tend to be "mouthpieces of conservative wealth," and far less liberal than most of their readers.

So journalists agree. They agree that the press needs to re-examine its purpose and its loyalties. In these times, Professor Olson says, "the press may lag behind in recognizing the social changes that have taken place." If this happens, he said, the press is going to find itself sharply challenged by other agencies for disseminating information.

Is the press inadequate, then, to meet the new demands upon it—to provide "a dependable and understandable picture" of the new world? Professor Olson thinks not, but he implies that editors and publishers must first see the situation whole, rather than from a personal angle only; that they must rededicate themselves to seeking facts and then printing them without fear or favor. Mr Mc Adams also supports this view, urging the publication of what he calls "free news." This he defines as "news undoctored by the bias of any editor or publisher. He added:

News has a mission. It is to tell the people the truth. Christ said: "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free." But we cannot know the truth if the newspapers are to sift it through a hundred screens and bring it out in the likeness of their own prejudices and beliefs. If we are to assemble the truth in a pure state and present it to the people in the livery of our own corporate selves, then the people shall not know the truth, nor shall the truth set them free.

What, if anything, can be done to provide a larger or at least a more reliable supply of "free news"?

First, more men and women capable of understanding public affairs, and capable of writing about them in a "dependable and understandable" way need to be trained or discovered. More readers also need to be educated to understand the problems of the press, and to demand uncolored news. Schools of journalism are doing good work in both fields.

But, secondly, those capable of reporting and writing the news intelligently must be permitted—and encouraged—to do so without halt or hindrance from editors and publishers steeped in old habits and prejudices. These two things, together, will win for the American press the place it rightfully deserves. The guarantees it enjoys under the Constitution place upon it responsibilities which it is honor-bound to accept. If it will do so, a new and finer journalism will result, and will help to bring into existence a finer country.

John Patrick, Playwright; A Real Personality With A Sane View of Success

He is known to all the English-speaking radio fans—this John Patrick. His clever "Cecil and Sally" skits have endeared him to millions. More than that, he succeeded in an undertaking that usually leads to dismal failure. He put his radio brain children in a play, took them traveling and played to enthusiastic audiences all over the country.

Only one familiar with radio can realize the triumph that this indicates. Personal appearances usually have sad results. Some of the most popular radio stars have been practically boo-ed off the stage.

His success isn't hard to understand when you know John Patrick. If ever a young man had his feet on the ground and his eyes straight ahead, it's that one. He was only 19 when he started writing and acting in his "Cecil and Sally" skits, but he knew something that most radio stars don't know. He realized that sudden fame can be followed by just as sudden oblivion, as the public fancy fastens on a later idol. John Patrick didn't hang around the studios basking in the worshipful envy of his fellow performers. Few knew his identity. Where almost any other youth would have broadcast his success, he was looking ahead, planning for the future and using every grain of experience for all it was worth.

John Patrick is not a very old young man yet and he already has four successful plays to his credit. His "Glory Lane" will be seen next week by Carmel audiences and will undoubtedly be another substantial step forward for the playwright.

Just aside from his real ability, John Patrick is one of the most delightful persons possible. Absolutely without conceit, he knows his worth and what he can accomplish with hard work. When a man can throw back his head and laugh whole-heartedly when an unjust criticism is repeated to him, there is no need to fear that success will spoil him. His sense of humor is as real as his talent. There is no question but that the combination will take him far.

Marie Rasmussen entertained several friends at a cocktail party Sunday evening at her home on Seventh and Guadelupe.

Public Opinion

The Carmel Sun invites its readers to make free use of this department in expressing their views on any subject of public interest.

An Appreciation.

Editor Carmel Sun.

Dear Sir: Among the varied SERA projects in Monterey county, under Mr. Frederick Bechdolt's capable management, is the new historic project which gives employment to twenty persons and a supervisor.

Through the whole-hearted, determined efficiency of Mrs. Nellie Montague, curator of Carmel's art gallery, persons of education in the fine arts and higher professions are able to find employment in the lines they are trained to work in, and many facts of historical interest, art and music, costumes, antiques, jewelry, gun collections, landmarks of interest to this historical vicinity, are preserved and catalogued.

Mrs. Montague fully realized that with the swift modernizing progress of the present day and the near future, that if some steps were not taken to preserve this invaluable data, it would be lost to posterity, forever. This would be an unforgivable error against us of the present time.

Bes des preserving this interesting data, the keen mind of Mrs. Montague has opened a wealth of new information and has given persons of refinement and education employment that holds up their morale, gives them interesting, educational activity and also a sense of responsibility and dignity in the work of finding and preserving data for future generations.

Workers know that what they accomplish in this project is marking them as builders and makers of new history and preservers of invaluable links between the romantic early days and the busy, hurrying present.

Miss Montague, an artist and a genius in psychology as well, has put new ambition and heart into the lives of these people, providing them work that is absorbingly interesting, as well as a means to provide for themselves and families. This woman, beautiful and brilliant, felt the deep need for this project and attacked it with the full measure of her rich ability. She looks at each individual under her guidance, a sweet smile lighting her lovely face, and on her mind is immediately and accurately registered that person, his capabilities, and his exact place in the historical tapestry she is weaving. She places each to the best advantage, whether he be psychologist, linguist, draftsman, musician or other profession useful to the project.

It is a pleasure and a privilege to work under the capable supervision of Mrs. Montague, who, with so few words can direct this work so well.

Persons interviewed are very gracious to the workers privileged to conduct this part of the project. They have found a ready welcome from these interesting descendants of old families and a wealth of drama and romance is found in every home, be it humble or luxurious.

Workers on the SERA projects are well taken care of both as to health and the conditions under which they must work. The well-heated and modern office of the historic project is the first theatre in Monterey, providing an up-to-date environment with an inspiring background, historically. Those employed are paid enough to insure a living sufficient to keep them warm and well nourished, with minds and hearts contented in the realization that what they are doing will live on into the future.

BEVHILLS ECONOMY WAVE

Nabob Sector Checking on Servants' Chiseling Rackets. Hollywood.

From New York "Variety:"

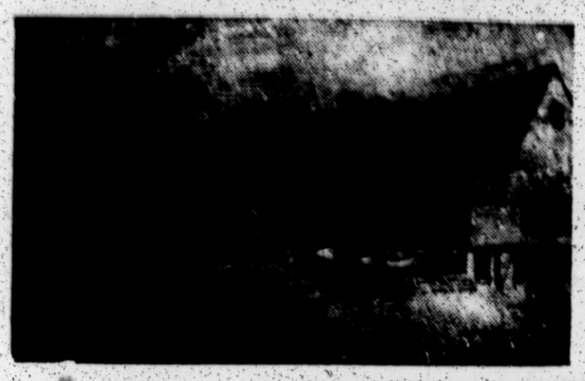
Economy streak has hit the Bevhills belt, with film names taking a double hitch in the change purse and sherlocking the outgo in a manner surprising, and no end of shock to the hired help.

Manse owners, not exactly famous for quick pay in the matter of store accounts (one biggie offered to settle a butcher bill of $1250 for $750 and told the carver he could take the rap for $500 or sue for the whole amount) have just been tipped off to a servants' racket whereby the mistress and master were being given the business on merchandise buys. Help have taken 10 per cent "on top" on all grocery, garage and other merchandise bills; but they made life so miserable for the dealers by threatening to take trade elsewhere the merchants have crossed them up by issuing trade coupons. Paper scrip is sent direct to employers, advising them to use the coups and revealing that the servants have been taking them to the tune of an agent's cut on past buys.

Adolph Menjou, the big movie star, and Miss Verree Teasdale were engaged by Hinds Lotion Co to go on the air with a playlet. Here's what Land, a New York Variety radio critic says of their broadcast:

"It seems there was a lady in evening gown and a gentleman in tails, and a diamond, and a cockney police sergeant, and the lady and gent were crooks and also lovers. Hinds hand lotion hired two Hollywood stars to make this piece of tripe seem like class. It remained tripe."

June Delight and her daughter, Carol Canoles, are leaving next Monday for San Francisco to remain for a week. They will attend the Monte Carlo Ballet, of which Leonide Massine is ballet master. This is a continuation of the Diaghielev ballet. June Delight will bring home to her pupils the very latest steps in ballroom and tap dancing.



Sunset School Notes

SUNSET TAKES TWO FROM PACIFIC GROVE

Two fast basket ball games attracted a good-sized audience in the Sunset school gymnasium late Friday afternoon. Carmel's entire lightweight squad consisting of Paul Warrington, Jack Pelton, Billy Frolli, Bobby Frolli, Alex Mayes, Miya Miyamoto, George Crossman, Orville Jones, Emory Nielsen, Cyril Stevenson and Pat Crichton, had an opportunity to perform.

The regular five consisting of Mayes, Miyamoto, Warrington, Felton and Frolli were largely instrumental in turning the tide of victory in Sunset's favor. Acting Captain Pelton played a strong defensive game while Warrington and Mayes netted Carmel's total score of ten points. The Pacific Grove lightweight squad consisting of Berry, Hyler, Fogg, Pugh, Colburn, Ward and Baxter scored a total of six points.

The Sunset school Heavyweights proved too large and fast for the Pacific Grove Heavyweight team and ran up a score of 25-4. The Carmel regulars, Frankie Hayford (acting captain), Victor Candia, Harry Butts, Devoe Briggs, Charles Hellam and the alternates James Muscutt, Homer Levinson, Miya Miyamoto and Billy Frolli showed decided improvement in basket shooting ability. Hayford, Candia and Butts accounted for the points. For Pacific Grove Bonnet, Phillips, Walters, Truesdale, Hyler and Giles displayed good floor play but were unable to connect with the basket.

A fine spirit of sportsmanship prevailed and arrangements were made for a return game in the very near future.

The following Intramural basketball games are scheduled for this week:

Tuesday, 3:35 p. m. Minatos vs. Bears. At 4:15, Trojans vs. Falcons.

Wednesday at 12:25 noon, Broncos vs. Cobras.

Miss Frances Dederick and Mr. James Kell, both of Santa Cruz, are assisting as student teachers in Sunset school.

Following is the list of new pupils and pupils returned.

Third Grade, Eric Nelson.

Fourth Grade, Dorothy Ottmar, Henrietta Ross.

Miss Bernita Ninneman, third grade teacher at Sunset school, has returned to her duties, after a week of absence due to illness.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Life" will be the subject of the Lesson - Sermon Sunday, January 20, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "The life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us" (I John 1:2). Other Bible citations will include: "O Lord, my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast healed me. O Lord, thou hast brought up my soul from the grave: thou hast kept me alive, that I should not go down to the pit" (Psalms 30: 2, 3).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the same Life, Love, and wisdom 'yesterday, and to-day, and forever.' Matter and its effects —sin, sickness, and death—are states of mortal mind which act, react, and then come to a stop. They are not facts of Mind" (p. 283).

GETTING EVEN WITH KIPLING.

A smart man,
With some precision,
Of a woman
Gave this definition:
"A rag, a bone and a hank of hair."
But a smart woman,
Not to be outdone,
Defined man
In the following pun:
"A nag, a drone and a tank of air."

KELLY-CHINN NUPTIALS

All Saints Episcopal Church was the scene of one of the loveliest weddings ever held in Carmel when Miss Bernice Kelly became the bride of Austin B. Chinn, Jr., Saturday evening, at 5:30 o'clock.

The church was a bower of acacia blossoms, softly illuminated by dozens of wax tapers. The bridal party entered to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" played by Mrs. Austin B. Chinn, mother of the bridegroom. The organ was heard also as a soft background for the ceremony.

The attractive bride was gowned in heavy ivory satin, made with long sleeves and full skirt. Her veil was fastened to a cap with orange blossoms. Miss Laurran Van Wyck Chinn was the only attendant of the bride and wore an afternoon frock of pink and white silk.

The groom's only attendant was Mr. Burt Hooper of Los Angeles.

The wedding was unique in that the father of the groom the Rev. Austin B. Chinn, officiated at the ceremony, his mother played the organ and his sister was bridesmaid.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal reception was held. Members of the bridal party and the two families later enjoyed a buffet supper at the Chinn home.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Church Kelly of southern California, is a graduate of the University of California and has also received her teachers' secondary credential for graduate work, in which she majored in Physics and Mathematics.

The bridegroom is an honor graduate of the University of Arizona, in Tucson, and later received his M. A. in Mathematics from the University of California, where he met his bride.

The young couple will make their home in Richmond where young Chinn is employed in the engineering department of the Standard Oil Company.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. William Church Kelly, parents of the bride, Mr. J. E. Walker, and Mr. J. E. Walker, Jr., all of Los Angeles. A San Francisco guest was Mrs. Sidney M. Van Wyck.

Mrs. Roden-Ryan, Peggy Perkins and Rudy Bremer are motoring to San Francisco Thursday. Mrs. Roden-Ryan will visit for a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Newell Service, who is hostess at the NBC studios.

Ted Nelson celebrated his tenth birthday by taking several of his friends to the show Saturday and treating them to ice cream afterwards. The boys were Jim Welsh, Charles Doble, Gordon Stoddard, Eric Nelson.

"GLORY LANE."

The production of "Glory Lane" to be given January 24, 25 and 26, at the Playhouse, is taking concrete form under the expert direction of Ralph Bell.

Years of handling screen and stage stars have given him a sureness to which the members of the cast are responding with enthusiasm.

Sibyl Leonard, who plays the title role, will give her finest performance seen in Carmel. Her comedy touches are deftly handled and she rises to heights in her dramatic moments.

At rehearsal this week, members of the cast sat out in front and wept at the intensity of the second act climax.

However, the play is not heavy drama. There is abundant comedy in the first act and the beginning of the second act boasts of a delightful satire on "Little Theatres" that enables the production to laugh at itself.

Marion Ford, Elizabeth Curran, Marie Bell, Fern Hyde and Doctor Williams play the whispering chorus and the preacher with broad humor.

No cast is complete without Byington Ford who in a few short years has become a legion to Carmel audiences. He lends a masculine solidness which is a rare quality in leading men. Equally fortunate has been the choice of Gordon Knowles as the other man in the life of the heroine. Both are expected to eclipse the high standard they have already set. Miss Claire Sinclair has been invited to play the hole of Jessica Burke. Her career on the professional stage covers a span of years with the finest stage stars. She has been featured with the late beloved Frank Bacon, Lyle Talbot, May Robson, Florence Reed, Marjorie Rambeau and Gladys George, who is having such a successful run this year on Broadway in "Personal Appearance. Her husband, John C. Livingston, was the stage idol of Australia and New Zealand. Other members of the cast are, Hallie Sampson, Elaine Carter, Zahrah Koepp, Gwen Stern, Nancy Thompson, Frank Hefling and Marie Bell.

BELOVED RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Byron Newell passed away Sunday afternoon at the Peninsula Community Hospital She had been ill for the past five or six months, but her death, nevertheless, was a shock to her many friends. Surviving are her husband and her daughter, Genevieve, who came home yesterday from Berkeley, where she is a student at the University of California. Funeral services will probably be held tomorrow, with Freeman's Mortuary in charge of the arrangements.

"SIGNS OF THE TIMES"

What is happening at home and abroad?

Where will the New Deal and the tremendous political and economic developments abroad lead?

What is really happening in the key countries of the world, in fascist Germany, communist Russia, imperialist Japan and democratic Britain, that may change the course of history in capitalistic United States also?

These questions Scott Nearing, scholar and world traveler, lecturer and sociologist, will deal with in his lecture, "The Struggle for the Pacific" at the Carmel Playhouse next Saturday night at the newly established Carmel Film and Forum.

Mr. Nearing, who has made extensive social studies and written and lectured on economic and educational questions in the United States, has recently returned from an extended European tour where he gathered at first hand those facts it is necessary to study to obtain any key to the world's history today. This Mr. Nearing, who has been professor of social sciences in a dozen American colleges, will give a peninsula audience.

He is known as a scholarly, vivid lecturer, and his clear understanding can reduce the most complex facts to a simplicity fit for lay understanding.

This lecture will particularly deal with the chances of another world war.

Mr. W. K. Bassett will take the chair at 8:00 p. m. on Saturday, January 19, at the Carmel Playhouse. Admission 40 cents unreserved, 75 cents reserved, from Staniford's and the Carmel Playhouse, or at the door.

Questions and discussions will be features of the evening.

NUTRITION EXPERT ADDRESSES P. T. A

Miss Gertrude Brandt, nutritionist for the California Dairy Council, in Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, gave an instructive talk to the members of the Sunset Parent-Teacher Association at their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. The importance of milk in a well-balanced diet was stressed and suggestions made as to its use, not only for the child, but for the adult as well.

The resignation of Miss Phyllis Calley as corresponding secretary of the P.-T. A. board was regretfully accepted and Mrs. Prince appointed in her place.

Principal O. W. Bardarson discussed legislation of interest to parents and teachers and read the legislative platform adopted by the California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

It was decided to accept the resolution passed by the P.-T. A. board to use up to $100 from the welfare fund for a school nurse or for supplies. Tea and cakes were served at the conclusion of the meeting.
